SDE III @ Google | Ex Walmart
Bengaluru, Karnataka, India

Summary

I'm a software engineer at Google, where I work on systems that handle terabytes of data at scale. My core interests lie in data structures & algorithms, distributed systems, and system design. I enjoy solving large-scale engineering challenges, designing resilient architectures, and optimizing performance for high-throughput systems. Beyond my current role, I'm deeply passionate about building scalable backend infrastructures, exploring concurrency, and continuously improving my expertise in advanced system design.
